Distillation	NOMAD is a premium blended whisky produced from a unique selection of over 30 different malt and grain whiskies from Speyside, The Highlands, Scotland. Each of these malt and grain whiskies are of 5 to 8 years old. 40% of the blend is made up of malt whisky. The resulting blend is left to mature in Scotland in Oloroso Sherry casks for 3 years. Following this it is transferred to Jerez where it will be finished for a minimum of 12 months in old Pedro Ximenez casks in the San Fernando cellar of González Byass maturing in the unique micro-climate of Jerez.
Tasting Notes	Bright, topaz coloured whisky. Inviting aromas with malty fragrance, and well-integrated alcohol, reminiscent of oak and Sherry due to its ageing in American oak barrels. Smooth and elegant on the palate with prominent flavours of raisins, honey and distinctive bouquet as a result of the finishing of the Whisky in Pedro Ximenez Sherry barrels. A long finish, pleasant with hints of vanilla and dried fruits. A very elegant whisky with a complex aftertaste.
